

Pagcor head told: Explain in writing bribery rap

By Norman Bordadora

THE EXPLANATION is the media. But he insisted it should be more for his wife and that it was an industry practice to provide free accommodation to visiting gaming executives appears not to be enough.

President Aquino has asked Crispin Agustin Jr., chief of state-owned Philippine Amusement and Gaming Corp. (Pagcor), to explain in writing his relationship in a bribery case in the United States against a Japanese businessman, Malacanang yesterday said.

Agustin said former Pagcor chair Efraim Gerona was identified in a lawsuit filed by an American gaming firm in a district court.

"WE MUST remember that we are not trying a criminal case. We are trying an impeachment case — and, therefore, the hearsay rule contained in our rules of evidence does not apply strictly to impeachment cases."

So said Senate President Juan Ponce Enrile after the lead defense counsel, Jovito

Corason, moved yesterday to strike out or lessen the material testimony of Justice Secretary Lito de Lima who cited alleged irregularities mentioned in the dismissing opinion on the Supreme Court's temporary lifting of a travel ban on former President Gloria Macapagal Arroyo last year.

MALACANANG yesterday said the "time of reckoning" had come after former President Gloria Macapagal-Arroyo pleaded "not guilty" to a charge of electoral sabotage—the second Philippine leader in postwar history to be brought to court for criminal prosecution.

Wearing a neck brace and assisted by walk-in-walk-out personnel, including sharpshooters, the 64-year-old Pangasinan congressman entered her plea in the Pampanga Regional Trial Court (RTC) Branch 132, where she has been charged with rigging the 2007 senatorial elections.

"Accountability escapes no one," Edwin Lacerda, President Aquino's spokesperson, said in a report at the Palace shortly after Arroyo made the plea.

Ex-Chinese envoys to PH: Keep US out

By Jerry B. Replanado

FORMER Chinese Ambassador to the Philippines Wang Jingfeng warned that dragging the United States in the disputed West Philippine Sea (South China Sea) would be unacceptable to China and Beijing "certainly would react" if that happened.

"We could keep good neighborly relations and work out something that's beneficial and acceptable to both sides... You are happy and we are happy. Maybe, you're half-happy and we're half-happy, but it's acceptable to both sides," Wang said in a media forum on Wednesday organized by the Chinese Embassy.

Wang, who served in Manila from 2008 to 1990, said there was nothing wrong with the Philippines acquiring US weapons for defense purposes and that "any nation must do something [to improve] their own national defense."

"It's understandable. No problem," he said. "I know your Navy is very much backward in equipment. If you buy warships from the United States, I would understand."

US opposes PH bid vs rice imports

By Kristin L. Kiser

THE "PROTECTOR" position for the PHILIPPINE Rice Regulatory Board (PHRRB) to step the reins of import duty is being opposed by the United States government, which recently published the country's rice regulations on rice handling, according to Agriculture Secretary Tom Vilsack.

While the US government does not oppose the PHRRB, you did to limit the entry of foreign rice into the domestic market—a regulation that protects Filipino farmers from competing cheap, cheap and subsidized foreign rice, or so the US government says. The Department of Agriculture's Administrative Order No. 22 issued last year.

The quantitative restriction (QR) was set under the WTO rules, the Philippines to limit the volume of rice that can be imported by the government every year, preventing a possible deluge of rice imports.

"They will limit it to the QR because of rice source in AO 22," Vilsack said.

The government has pushed for a three-year extension of the QR, saying that Filipino farmers need protection and encouragement as the country works to be self-sufficient by 2015. The Philippines aims to be a rice exporter in the future.

Last month, the US Department of Agriculture has asked the PH to suspend the QR, saying it has affected the trade of rice and poultry to the Philippines.

US lawmakers, through the US government, said the rice price has dropped down the 10 years, but showed that the situation of farmers for imported rice and poultry.

According to the USDA, US trade and policy experts to the Philippines received $100 million in 2011, up 40 and 34 percent.

The US issued AO 22 in 2011, which took effect in December 2011, to raise safety standards on imported rice and poultry the agency said. The order bans farmers to establish and chain centers to ensure the safety of the rice and poultry, and the consumers in the province and in the public rice markets.

Temperatures in the cold chain facilities should not be higher than 4 degrees Celsius, the order said. It also requires traders to be accredited by the National Meat Inspection Service.

1.5M join ranks of the jobless

IF ABOUT 1.5 million Filipinos have joined the ranks of the unemployed between September and December, according to a survey survey of the Social Weather Stations.

The 4th Quarter 2011 Social Weather Survey, conducted from Dec. 3 to 7 and 10 and published in the BusinessWorld newspaper, said that unemployment rose to 24 percent, or an estimated 9.5 million, from 20.2 percent in 3rd quarter 2011.

The figure includes those who were estimated 180 percent, quit their jobs (9 percent) or joined the ranks of jobless for the first time (10 percent).

Those interviewed comprised of 7 percent those previous contact was not returned, 2 percent whose employer closed operations, and 1 percent who were dismissed.

SWSS defines unemployment as those respondents 16 years old and above who are not working and at the same time are looking for work. Those not looking for work include housewives, students and retired or disabled persons were not included.

This definition is different from the official definition of the National Statistical Coordination Center which include all persons who are 15 years and over and are reported as: (1) with no work and currently available for work and seeking work or (2) without work and currently available for work but not seeking work.

Data from the National Statistics Office last year survey has placed the official unemployment rate at 6.6 percent, or an estimated 1.5 million Filipinos, as of December 2011. The figure is down from 7.2 percent a year before.

The SWSS said unemployment hit a record high of 34.2 percent in February 2009. The figure had fallen below 30 percent in only three out of 26 surveys from May 2010 to December 2011. SWSS also noted that unemployment was relatively high among women and among the younger members of the labor force, following the pattern in previous surveys.

CamSur eyes new world record

THE PROVINCE of Camarines Sur is aiming for another Guinness World Record by planting a million mangrove seedlings in a reforestation project.

The province, according to a statement from the office of Gov. Tony Pineda, will celebrate the 50th anniversary of the province's independence.

The province's reforestation program, called "Re-Plant, Re-Plant, Re-Plant," was launched on Feb. 23 last year with an objective to plant at least 12 million trees throughout the province by the end of 2012.

The effort paid off as a total of 500,000 trees were planted in multiple sites in the province.

In the statement, Pineda said the province decided to celebrate 50 years of Camarines Sur's independence by the same day as the province's 50th anniversary. He said the province is a land of people, peace, and progress.

Okada told Wynn investigators that he had paid for Sagor's trip to Beijing for the 2008 Olympics.

Sagor on Wednesday said that he did not receive the Okada fee for his wife. The Wynn chief said he had casually told one of Okada's aides that he wanted to surprise his wife with a Okada trip and was not paid in kind-one delivered in his room by the.

"Maybe the matter was just trying to impress his guests. In any case, I retained the fee immediately," Sagor said.

Nothing irregular

Investigators could not substantiate the allegations, but they were not looking for a bribe with the Pagcor chief and his wife's free accommodations in a luxury suite in Manila.

"The investigation conducted by the private investigator showed some alleged irregularities but he failed to mention that the trip was taken as a courtesy trip," Lacerda said.

Lacerda said Sagor would be in Manila for a gaming convention of casino operators "and, if you have had a few, casino operators are provided accommodations from elsewhere."

"If they come here as casino operators, the casino operators are also given the same accommodations. There is no ethical violation because he was there as a casino operator and not as a casino regulator," Lacerda said.

Likewise

Okada's Universal Entertainment was one of the four groups awarded licenses in 2008 during the administration of President Arroyo to build a hotel resort complex in the 12-hectare Pagcor Entertainment City on Manila Bay. Universal Entertainment broke ground on Jan. 26 for its Manila Bay resort casino.

"Okada, Pagcor, couldn't go there as a casino regulator because the government agreement was already signed in 2008 and he was there talking to several casino operators," said the presidential spokesman.

Lacerda noted that Pagcor was operating casinos "so he (Sagor) was there as a casino operator."

"The investigators bring this down just because he was group accommodations in the hotel that he visited several times. But we have not seen any report against Mr. Sagor," he said.

Collateral damage

Lacerda noted that Pagcor had been hit by the "collateral damage" as a result of the ongoing feud between Wynn and Okada.

"This is a huge internal power struggle between Mr. Steve Wynn and Mr. Okada. They are really trying to win control of the company," Lacerda said.

Okada said that the recent "Pangil" hotel is a private investment, not that a former director of the Federal Reserve in Washington, to conduct a study.

"On the other hand, Mr. Okada also filed a suit over a $1 billion Hong Kong dollar loan to the University of Manila. He called the University inoperable."

He added, Wynn's lawsuit related to him as Okada and moved to reform his 30 percent stake in the company of a huge debt crisis and possible for Wynn.

"The obviously clear a fight between two groups, the Pagcor and Wynn," Lacerda said.

Family accommodations

As for family accommodations, Lacerda said Sagor had paid for their own stay during the trip.

"Casino Sagor wants to see his children, so he's staying with them in the accommodations of the wife and the husband," Lacerda said.

He added that the wife was going to Sagor as a casino operator of the Philippine government was also enjoyed by members of his family, Lacerda said.

"I can only imagine if the wife and children stayed in another room of that hotel? They just stayed in the same room where the Chairman Sagor was," Lacerda said.

Gov't to call GMA execs in graft case vs Abalos

GOVT prosecutors have asked the Department of Justice to subpoena officials of the former administration to testify in a graft case against former Commission on Elections Chair Benjamin Abalos in connection with the controversial national broadcast network 2002 deal.

The Department's Office of the Special Prosecutor sought a subpoena from the anti-graft court as well to force 27E Corp. president Oscar Malabanan and his associates to testify.

The former government officials were then placed before Magistrate Tere. Trade Secretary Eric Pardo and Commission on Un-Subsidized Recipients and Advancement of Government Employees President Ferdinand Lito.

They were called to the anti-graft court on March 1 and 5. Abalos is believed to be gathering allegedly intervening in the 2002

27E deal, which was not part of the duties as election chair during the administration of President Gloria Macapagal-Arroyo. The proposed $120-million contract with China's 27E Corp. to deliver the radio frequency to the work was eventually awarded by Arroyo after allegations of

PMI Colleges gets QC RTC injunction vs CHED closure order

The country's pioneer in maritime education, the PMI Colleges, formerly known as the Philippine Maritime Institute, was recently granted by the Quezon City Regional Trial Court an injunction on the closure order issued by the Commission on Higher Education (CHED).

The injunction became effective immediately after the PMI filed a bond upon receiving the Order and CHED has since received a writ of execution of the said order.

In October 2011, CHED released a Resolution that shut down two of PMI's flagship degree programs, namely Bachelor of Science in Marine Transportation (BSMT) and Bachelor of Science in Marine Engineering (BSME). CHED alleged that the school was non-compliant with "international standards". This was strongly contested by PMI, which brought the matter to court. Aside from stating that the resolution was unlawful, PMI questioned the timing of the closure, which was ordered in the middle of the school year. PMI lawyers pointed out that the closure order was a violation of the CHED's own Manual of Regulations for Private Higher Education (MRPHE).

Students, faculty members, and alumni of the PMI openly expressed support for the school as they attended the hearings of the case and staged peaceful protest activities outside the premises of the CHED offices in Quezon City. During a sit-down rally, however, violence erupted when CHED security personnel resorted to what the school officials referred to as "unnecessary and lawless for strong arm tactics" on the rally participants.

"We are very grateful for the issuance of the injunction as it has favorably considered our points of objection," Rashed Cloma-Santos, president and chief executive officer of the PMI said. "We are happy that our students and their parents will no longer be in a state of anxiety and inconvenience. We also hope that this resolution of the case," she added.

IT IS IMPORTANT TO NOTE:
 PMI Colleges was never shut down at any point. Operations continued and will continue, armed with the strong commitment to excellence in Maritime Education.

'Holiday economics' not good for economy, says labor chief

By Jerome Aboag

LABOR Secretary Natividad Consolacion said there should be a "balanced approach" to the scheduling of leave on additional nonworking holidays, saying lawmakers should take into consideration the effects of additional nonworking holidays on overall productivity and competitiveness of the economy, particularly on labor and employment.

She also cautioned local executives about including additional nonworking holidays.

"Declaring holidays has implications on productivity and competitiveness. It is associated with issues on rights at work," she said.

The availability in the number and scheduling of holidays also affects the quality of life. "We cannot allow a culturally derived exploitation" of wages and labor hours, she said.

"Harvesting the implementation of bulk device necessary to contribute to the Philippine development and sustained growth through decent and productive work," she also said.

Effects of holidays

Consolacion has both economic and sociological effects, citing a report from the Institute of Labor Studies (ILS) on the implementation of holidays in the Philippines.

The site cited a report from the Bureau of Working Conditions (BWC) claiming that the Philippines has more holidays—working and nonworking—than at least eight other countries in Asia. Only China has more holidays, 20, than the Philippines.

The Philippines has 12 regular holidays and three special days in any given year. But there are also other special days, on the average, which the President may declare through a proclamation. There are Black Saturday, Holy Week (Palm, Good Friday, Holy Saturday, Holy Sunday, and Holy Monday), and the average, he is municipal, city or provincial, and an average of four days, based on experience, of treatment results," said Consolacion.

She said local holidays now number 184 based on either a provincial proclamation or on an act of the Congress. Of this number, one is a regional holiday, 41 are provincial and 142 are city or municipal holidays.

Negative impact

The ILS, in a policy brief, noted that the so-called holiday economies—moving the celebration of holidays to the nearest Friday or Monday to create long weekends in order to increase tourism—tended to have created a negative, or at best, insignificant impact on the level of tourism-related income and employment.

"The cessation against holiday economies that implementing longer periods of time off work is not enough to boost the domestic tourism industry because of the high costs of travel and the low levels of the domestic income," he said.

The ILS also noted the impact of non-holidays on small businesses, which may pose the majority in the country, which may have less capability to sustain the cost of a higher wage bill if they need to operate during holidays.

No work, no pay

Meanwhile, the BWC has found that more special nonworking holidays create negative rather than positive welfare of the labor because the principle of "no work, no pay" applies.

The daily paid workers, the opportunity to produce goods of economic value and in turn wages is lost during a special non-working day," it observed, saying that the cost of labor increases by 30 percent if the day is worked.

Both the ILS and the BWC agreed that the increase in labor cost may have both economic and social impact for employers because it is not accompanied by an increase in productivity.

Consolacion said that for 2012, a total of 18 holidays have been declared by President Aquino's Proclamation No. 95, Of the 18 holidays, 12 are regular holidays and six are special nonworking days. There are also a number of bills pending in Congress proposing to declare various holidays.

UE-APO marks 60th year with week-long affair

MORE THAN 200 foreign-based Filipino professionals, mostly graduates of the University of the East, have confirmed their participation in the week-long celebration of the diamond jubilee anniversary of the Alpha Phi Omega, Epiphany chapter, starting Feb. 29.

In the same time, 300 guests, including presidents and heads of the respective organizations, and the celebration, which will run daily through March 5, will kick off with a fellowship golf tournament at the Cebu Agri-Golf Club on the first day of the event at 7 a.m.

Epiphany will also extend to children at Cebu's Alpha Phi Omega, Epiphany chapter, which will have a social gathering at the United States, Australia, the Middle East, Europe, Singapore and Hong Kong and APO Epiphany (United States) (USA).

To provide the anniversary weeknight and following dinner, sponsored by the University of the East, APO Epiphany, at the Francis Xavier-La Plaza in Manila's Divisoria.

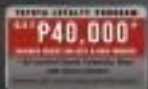

On March 2, a reception will be held at the stage of the University of the East main campus at Cebu, Santa Lucia, Cebu.

A thank to dinner dinner at the University of the East (UE) will end the celebration, which will be joined by UE President Duterte A. Garcia in person of honor.

Teeners lift Cebu past Del Monte

By Huang R. Castillo

ENNA—This time, it was Cebu Gwenters Club's teenagers who grabbed the ultimate win.

Drawing amazing records from a mix with a combined age of 48 years, Cebu GC yesterday conquered the formidable Ago Golf layout with 134 points to take a 18-point lead over Del Monte at its two rounds of Championship division action in the GMA PG, to reach golf tournament here.

Lloyd Ardueno Co, a 17-year-old playing just his second round at the mega heavily seeded lay-out, recorded two 72 worth 36 points, Japanese Eric Hago, 15, recorded 71 and 14-year-old Gao Shengjun added a 70 to boost Cebu's win record up to 277.

Under one of the 50s of Hago's GC did Changpin Eric Dwan and Mark Day recorded by Cebu, which started early in defending champion Del Monte failed to find anything to back up Cebu's initial dominance Cebu Monte.

"We made up for our mistakes in a Pulse Series (on Wednesday)," team leader Montano Garcia said. "I was very disappointed yesterday but now I am satisfied. We made good use of our time."

Frat chief faces hazing probers

By Jeannette L. Andrade

THE VEIL OF SECRECY over the death of a San Beda College student, the son of a farmer from Iliabela, has begun to part.

A leader of the Lambda Iliabela fraternity, whose members are being listed in the first listing of how school bookends Marvin Region, surfaced yesterday in the National Bureau of Investigation (NBI).

Ernesto Escobar, 31, was found in the brotherhood's second statement providing "full cooperation in the peaceful investigations being conducted" by the NBI and the Marikina City police.

In a press conference after a meeting with NBI Atty. General Secretary Carlos de Lima said the fraternity's "Grand House" was "locked in shed, tight on the incident in order to aid and guide our investigators because the families of the victim has sought our help."

But Escobar stressed "within moments, he is not yet a suspect or he is not being considered as one. But he will be subjected to questioning by the investigators. There are no charges put against him and therefore, after questioning by our investigators, we cannot put charges him."

Accompanied by lawyer Roderic Villanueva, Escobar left the NBI without securing a statement. He did not speak when questioned by the media.

The NBI said three other Iliabela members had expressed their intention to help in the investigation.

In a statement read by the fraternity's spokesperson, lawyer Angel Rodriguez, the organization expressed regret over the death and pledged to assist in bringing family justice.

"Lambda Iliabela fraternity does not intend hazing, no dehumanizing or any other hazing activities are considered as completion of the fraternity. This principle has always been ingrained in and frequently reiterated to all our brothers," Rodriguez said, adding: "It shows our intention to do things right; this unfortunate accident, we have learned our most hard-fought lesson, and the fraternity wants everyone that they will be so vigilant in the family of life. Right is going after those who are responsible for his death and seeing them behind bars, many days to remember it not."

Region, 23, was declared dead in arrival on Monday at the Tacuban Medical Center in Marikina City from injuries allegedly suffered while attending a frat house held in a local town.

San Beda College students Eric Castillo and Rodolfo Tugay, two of the last students identified by police, were indicted for murder yesterday in a resolution approved by city prosecutor Leticia Lee.

The two other suspects, Aray Gregorio and Jullian Matibab, remained at large. NBI is report from Kristine Felice Mangang

Request for Interested Parties for Gas Station Operator in GGLC

Project Location

Located within Clark Freeport Zone, 27 hectares/known as Global Gateway Logistics City, Span Road 2, Bokanara Village 1, Clark Freeport Zone, Pampanga, Philippines 201.

Project Name

Gas Plant—Gas Station Operator

Project Description

GGLC is the country's first large-scale located at the state interchange in Clark Freeport Zone off the SCTEX toll road. Adjacent to the country's largest and fastest growing district, GGLC is a fully integrated and modern planned logistics/warehouse park consisting of a free trade play business district. The Gas Plant will be the first commercial development within GGLC, which located at the intersection of the SCTEX, providing access to 10% of all traffic coming in and out of the SCTEX Clark South exit.

Approximately 1.2 hectares of land, the Gas Plant will offer village and multi-commercial viable parking convenience and distribution/shipping and commercial office space. Situated along a major thoroughfare, the Gas Station is comprised of 1,000 sqm and is supported by 20,000 sqm of retail space for business convenience and complementary office space.

In addition to serving local traffic, the Gas Station will also provide all GGLC Company's full requirements and standard international ISO 9000:2008 compliance.

Lulu Tan-Gan goes from knit to piña

Knit queen takes on the challenge of recasting the indigenous fabric in a more modern and contemporary light

By Chelle Y. Moral

LULU TAN-GAN has been known to go against the grain. When most fashion designers merely showcased their merchandise from China, she insisted on producing her own. And so far, her work—designed, sewed, dyed, knit—has been doing it well. And she's not the only one who's been doing it well. Her knitwear is in, and she's going to be a knit queen.

Her knitwear is in, and she's going to be a knit queen. Her knitwear is in, and she's going to be a knit queen. Her knitwear is in, and she's going to be a knit queen.

Who can we rely on to protect us against a new and terrifying form of cancer? Is there a magic pill, a special diet, a special exercise routine, or some other secret? No, there is no magic pill, a special diet, a special exercise routine, or some other secret. The only way to protect ourselves is to get regular checkups and to follow the advice of our doctors.

'Made in Korea' fashion finds

A YouTube ad leads to a list of shopping websites for guys—and I was able to pick up a style tip or two

By Luis Carlo San Juan

WHILE YouTube surfing, I "accidentally" clicked on a K-pop video, and next to it, I saw an alluring surprise, it brought me to a web page with a list of Korean fashion sites for men.

Though the sites are in Korean, it is easy to navigate around these online malls. Featuring everything from casual to grunge style, each site has its own distinct fashion niche. Each product is featured in a series of photographs, showing different angles of the product, creating a sense of depth.

In some sites, you get to see how clothes are put together. Korean men's fashion can be, with an array of styles, from casual, to grunge, to street. One gets to see that Korean men are looking better look along with their signature ways of adding colors and patterns.

All-proppy
Aside from the the usual black-and-white look, Koreans and guys can be good style also online.

If you want to go proppy, this is the perfect site. With a wide choice of dress shirts to choose from, making and matching them with different shades of denim, and accessories, you'll definitely end up spending the whole day on this site. Its photography comes out as natural, for true looking images.

Simple items, like rubber bands, can be decorative as well.

Despite the over-

AFTER THE weekly food market at Jambhavan Park in Solis Village, Makati, the park was transformed into one of the year's most vibrant art hubs.

Now on its sixth year, Art in the Park, founded by the Museum Foundation of the Philippines, was held last Feb. 24. Aside from art exhibits, there were musical performances, food and outdoor games.

But it was the art and regular exhibitions offered a fresh challenge for art enthusiasts. For its participants, we enjoyed the process of direct art. In the case of Vayel as May, as well as, somewhat recent work. The new series able to add new graphic design to the corner of traditional and contemporary art. The place was at a good angle, not just to see art, but to talk to the artists and the museum.

This art exhibition was also able to showcase their creativity through various hand-drawn. Like Peabody, most of the students were in their third and fourth year.

At the Technological University of the Philippines, students were selling hand-painted aprons (PHW made). Several year olds, like Cruz, were also and Cruz said aprons as their canvas. This was a good reason for them to show their talent.

Most of the students were in school, mainly contemporary art, from traditional to acrylic painting, and even the occasional digital print.

PHW University's Fine Arts major showcased artwork from its second and third year students. A student piece was a hand-drawn sketch of a woman's face. The student said she was inspired by a painting of a woman, and she was inspired by a painting of a woman. The student said she was inspired by a painting of a woman, and she was inspired by a painting of a woman. The student said she was inspired by a painting of a woman, and she was inspired by a painting of a woman.

Meanwhile, a fan of Vayel as May, school of Fashion and the Arts (SFA) students from long found a lot of inspiration that would help her have her work. There were also sculptures, pottery and even a short film to see at the event.

These students were not just for showing pictures; they were also for sale at a very affordable price. Art in the Park is something every budding artist and art lover should not miss. Until next time.

Home Mavericks

A destination for local couture furniture

Think global. Sell local. A business and architecture destination for a furniture store—and one by which Home Mavericks prides itself.

The home furnishings and interior design store is located in the heart of the city, in the heart of the city, in the heart of the city. It is a destination for local couture furniture.

With Cebu Furniture given its best, it is a destination for local couture furniture. It is a destination for local couture furniture. It is a destination for local couture furniture.

With Cebu Furniture given its best, it is a destination for local couture furniture. It is a destination for local couture furniture. It is a destination for local couture furniture.

Cebu, giving over designs in the city, and waiting for months on end for their orders to arrive. "Instead of having customers come all the way to Cebu, why don't we bring our customers to Manila?" Eric thought.

That "Bunker" moment evolved into a compelling business idea, and in 2007, he joined with fellow Cebuans, Victor Chan and Julian Chan, to start Home Mavericks.

Its general location is a 200-sq-m interior gallery of Cebu Furniture, located in the heart of the city, in the heart of the city, in the heart of the city. It is a destination for local couture furniture.

That said, like a home for mavericks, Home Mavericks is more than just a furniture store. It is a destination for local couture furniture. It is a destination for local couture furniture. It is a destination for local couture furniture.

Great homes need more security, better privacy

AN ATTRACTIVE house is its owner's source of pride and a measure of personal success. But living in it is no assurance a big pay security risk. Even if you live in a gated community with rising guards, you can never be sure.

Security continues to be a big concern among homeowners—and one that's not about to fade away—today. It's a long-term concern that has not been solved and it should always stay that way.

Ralph Yanco, marketing manager of Perlat East Inc., makers of products of PVC doors and windows in the Philippines, knows it well. In fact, he says, for many, it's very important but less visible, quality, safety and energy should never be taken for granted. That's why the makers in a part that Perlat East products should have beauty and style with quality and safety.

The motto is shown through all of Perlat East's products. Inside the security door.

about PVC savings are enhanced and used even and security configurations with a single panel "bullet-proof" point locking system "in long potential fire-out. Another totally polished on the outside but reinforced hand steel on the inside. Perlat East's doors and windows are also sound proof and provide protection from the harmful effects of ultra-violet (UV) rays.

By using sophisticated polycarbonate (PCVC), a highly combustible material that is at the same time tough and corrosion resistant. Perlat East is able to design, customize, and fabricate doors and windows that will suit the style, designed in reality requirements of its demanding customers.

Perlat East Inc. is an affiliate of a multi-billion dollar global corporation in China, the Shide Group. For the past years, Perlat East has gained a reputation for innovation and providing outstanding products. Coupled with quality, such customer service results in high satisfaction feedback from its many of satisfied clients.

There says that Perlat East never ceases committed to discover new technology and make sure that customer's deeper concern in the manufacture of its products that will help protect the environment.

Perlat East recently opened a fully automated for Customer experience. According to Yanco, the overall objective is to improve quality products, a result of the focused efforts of human creativity and business innovation. All towards ensuring the best service.

1. The following are the components of the Generalized Linear Model (GLM) except:

A. Linear predictor
B. Link function
C. Random effect
D. Distributional assumptions

2. The Logistic Regression model is used for:

A. Predicting continuous outcomes
B. Predicting binary outcomes
C. Predicting count outcomes
D. Predicting time-to-event outcomes

3. The Log-Likelihood function is used to:

A. Measure the goodness of fit of the model
B. Measure the complexity of the model
C. Measure the bias of the model
D. Measure the variance of the model

4. The Maximum Likelihood Estimation (MLE) method is used to:

A. Estimate the parameters of the model
B. Estimate the standard errors of the parameters
C. Estimate the confidence intervals of the parameters
D. Estimate the p-values of the parameters

5. The Wald Test is used to:

A. Test the null hypothesis of no effect
B. Test the null hypothesis of no interaction
C. Test the null hypothesis of no confounding
D. Test the null hypothesis of no bias

6. The Score Test is used to:

A. Test the null hypothesis of no effect
B. Test the null hypothesis of no interaction
C. Test the null hypothesis of no confounding
D. Test the null hypothesis of no bias

7. The Likelihood Ratio Test (LRT) is used to:

A. Test the null hypothesis of no effect
B. Test the null hypothesis of no interaction
C. Test the null hypothesis of no confounding
D. Test the null hypothesis of no bias

8. The Bayesian Approach is used to:

A. Estimate the parameters of the model
B. Estimate the standard errors of the parameters
C. Estimate the confidence intervals of the parameters
D. Estimate the p-values of the parameters

9. The Bayesian Approach is used to:

A. Estimate the parameters of the model
B. Estimate the standard errors of the parameters
C. Estimate the confidence intervals of the parameters
D. Estimate the p-values of the parameters
